Hi Gobeail,

Attached is a draft agenda and questions for Monday's PSNH meeting. PSNH requested we provide them, in the least, a list of questions prior to the meeting so they can prepare any relevant information before they leave for Boston.

I've also included PSNH's MATS compliance plan, which was submitted to NH DES in mid-December, after their initial extension request. (b) (5) DPP

As I mentioned this morning, we need to identify any additional meeting topics.

Nonresponsive I am
checking with the 4th floor about whether a Elliott, ME 126 discussion is desired and whether that would have to be coordinated with Janet. (FYI I am out that day).

Please check with your staff and get back to me. In addition, I know your GL's and Anna are on travel but I've given them this message as an opportunity to weigh in as well. It's ok if we don't have any more topics, but if there is something we need to talk with Tom about, face-to-face meetings are a good idea.

Let me know by COB today. Thanks.

Clean Air Act Section 126 Petition Concerning Schiller Station

February 20, 2014
Eliot, Maine

Meeting Agenda

I. Overview

1. Clean Air Act section 126
2. Permitted vs. actual SO₂ emissions trends at Schiller
3. Historical ambient SO₂ data in Portsmouth area
4. Upcoming EPA programs for power plants
 - a) 1-Hour SO₂ National Ambient Air Quality Standard
 - b) Mercury and Air Toxics Standards (MATS)
 - c) Carbon pollution standards for existing power plants
5. Overview of Petitioner's submittal
6. Correspondences received since receipt of petition

II. Discussion

III. Next Steps

Clean Air Act

Section 126

- Under section 126 of the CAA, a state (or political subdivision) may petition the Administrator for a finding that a major source or group of stationary sources emits or would emit any pollutant in violation of the “good neighbor” provision [CAA section 110(a)(2)(D)(i)].
 - 110(a)(2)(D)(i)(I) prohibits any source in one state from emitting any air pollutant in amounts which will contribute significantly to nonattainment in, or interfere with maintenance by, any other state with respect to any NAAQS.
- The Clean Air Act gives EPA 60 days to grant or deny the petition.
 - 307(d)(10) allows EPA to extend deadlines that require final action in less than six months by an additional six months after the proposal date.
 - EPA extended the deadline to May 8, 2014 (60 days plus 6 months).

Clean Air Act

Section 126

- If the EPA grants the petition and makes a finding that the source emits air pollutants in violation of the good neighbor provision, section 126(c) provides that EPA may permit the continued operation of the source if it complies with EPA-established emissions limitations and compliance schedules (including increments of progress) designed to bring about compliance with the good neighbor provision as expeditiously as practicable and at the latest within 3 years of the finding

SO₂ Emissions Trends at Schiller Station

* Annual SO₂ Emissions based on data retrieved from EPA's Air Markets Program Database

 Permitted Emission Limit based on SO₂ emission limits in NH DES permit TV-OP-053 and amended limits to Unit 5 in TP-B-0501 (effective July 2006)

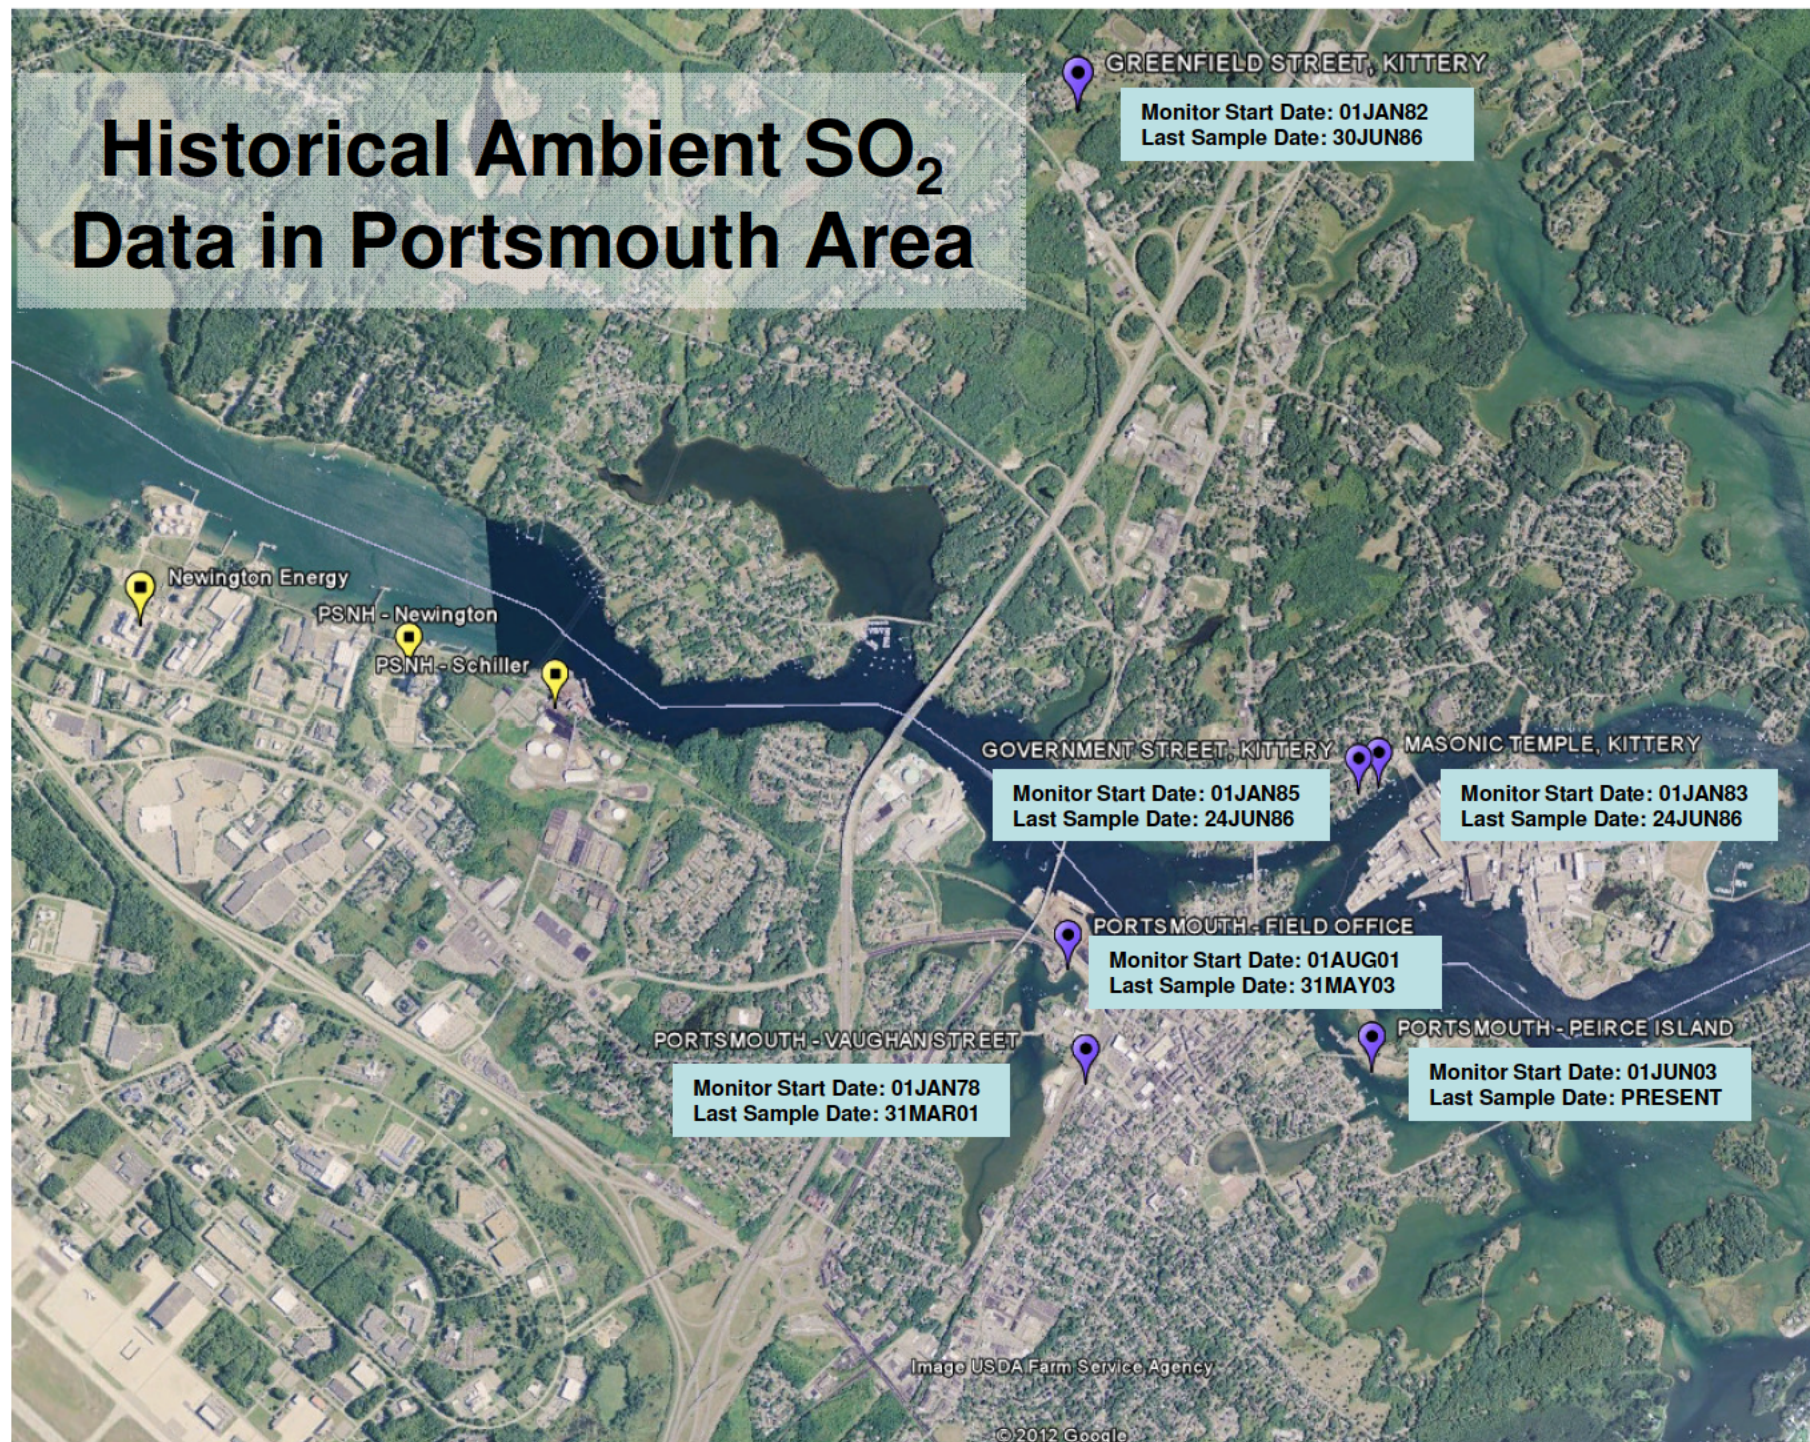

Daily SO₂ Emissions During 2006 - 2013

* Daily SO₂ Emissions based on data retrieved from EPA's Air Markets Program Database

 Permitted Daily Emission Limit based on SO₂ emission limits in NH state regulation ENV-A 402.04, the amended limit to Unit 5 in TP-B-0501 (effective July 2006), and the amended limits to Units 4 & 6 in TP-0106 (effective October 2012)

Historical Ambient SO₂ Data in Portsmouth Area

Vaughn Street, Portsmouth, NH

AQS Site ID: 33-015-0009

Portsmouth - Vaughn Street monitor data based on data available through EPA's Air Quality System database

Field Office, Portsmouth, NH

AQS Site ID: 33-015-0015

Portsmouth – Field Office monitor data based on data available through EPA's Air Quality System database

Pierce Island, Portsmouth, NH

AQS Site ID: 33-015-0014

Portsmouth – Pierce Island monitor data based on data available through EPA's Air Quality System database (June 2006 – Sept 2013) and datasets provided through AirNow (Oct 2013 – Dec 2013)

1-Hour SO₂ National Ambient Air Quality Standard

- June 2010 – EPA adopts new 1-hour health-based ambient air quality standard for SO₂ of 75 parts per billion
- Initial nonattainment area designations based on violating monitors completed in August 2013 – 29 areas designated
 - Two additional future rounds of initial designations based on modeling (2017) and monitoring (2020) are planned
- SO₂ Data Requirements Rule
 - Objective is to provide information to EPA in an orderly fashion to inform initial area designations
 - Proposal targeted for this year

Mercury and Air Toxics Standards (MATS)

- Dec 2011 MATS will control the emission air toxics, such as mercury (Hg), hydrogen chloride (HCl), and other non-Hg metals, from power plants
- Compliance date for MATS is April 2015
 - PSNH Schiller Station has submitted a compliance extension request seeking one additional year to comply with MATS emission limits
 - If granted by NH DES, Schiller's compliance date will be April 2016
- Control technologies designed to reduce HCl emissions can also significantly reduce SO₂ emissions
 - SO₂ has similar qualities to HCl, allowing controls for one to impact the other
 - Schiller has proposed to install a system to reduce HCl and comply with the MATS HCl emission limit. The proposed system's impact on SO₂ emissions at Schiller is unknown at this time

Carbon Pollution Standards for Existing Power Plants

- President Obama's Climate Action Plan tasks EPA with reducing carbon pollution from power plants
- EPA intends to regulate carbon pollution from power plants under Clean Air Act section 111
- Clean Air Act section 111 lays out different approaches for new and existing stationary sources

ELIOT, Maine — Residents are being asked June 11 whether they want to petition the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to investigate the Schiller Station power plant in Newington, N.H., for unhealthy levels of sulfur dioxide emissions.

It is an issue that promises lively campaigning in the weeks to come from both proponents of Question 2 and Public Service of New Hampshire, the owner of the plant.

The action that will be triggered if the ballot initiative is successful is a long time coming, said Kimberly Richards, a South Eliot resident who has led the effort. She said that for generations, residents have talked about health problems that she believes are attributable to unhealthy air quality resulting from plant emissions.

Richards and Glen Brand, Maine director of the Sierra Club, spoke to the Portsmouth Herald editorial board Wednesday.

However, PSNH is putting up a spirited defense of the plant. Both sides anticipate lively campaigning as election day looms.

At issue is a so-called "Good Neighbor" petition under the Clean Air Act. The petition allows municipalities and states near a power plant in another state to ask the EPA to investigate air pollution.

Specifically, the Eliot petition seeks to ask for a reduction in sulfur dioxide emissions at the plant. Schiller Station has three boilers, two coal fired and one wood fired.

The Board of Selectmen has endorsed the petition, but is seeking the will of the town on the matter.

Selectmen have based their endorsement on a study conducted by the Sierra Club in 2011. According to the study, under new EPA standards promulgated in 2010, Schiller Station significantly violates the national sulfur dioxide air quality standard.

The study presupposes that Schiller Station is running at full capacity, although the plant is only used during high-usage days, according to Martin Murray of PSNH.

"It's a flawed model. It assumes we are like an automobile going at 100 miles an hour, 24/7," he said.

Murray said Schiller is "fully compliant" under its current permit, which is based on standards that expired when the new standards — which are not yet being enforced by the EPA — were promulgated.

But Brand strongly contests that allegation. There are no sulfur dioxide scrubbers at Schiller, and he said the EPA's own data collected at Peirce Island in Portsmouth, N.H., show the plant violated sulfur dioxide levels, even under the old permit.

"When they do use it, they're making people sick," he said.

Richards, who suffers from respiratory illness she links to the station, put it this way: "If someone is slipping cyanide into your coffee on Mondays and Tuesdays and not the rest of the week, they're still slipping cyanide into your coffee."

Both Brand and Richards said that, in any event, there should be no reason that the EPA can't investigate those assertions.

But would there be a cost?

Richards and Brand point to a letter from Attorney General Janet Mills, who wrote that Eliot would not be subject to "nonfrivolous countersuits" from PSNH "as long as the town's petition is filed in good faith."

Murray is quite clear that the petition "opens the real possibility of the town being at risk of financial obligation." Mills stated in her letter that would only be the case if the town "chose" to be involved. It would not have to if it chose not to.

Finally, Murray said public hearings are expected to begin this summer on the new EPA standards, and said Eliot can participate "without any risk." But Brand counters that the earliest those standards will be fully implemented is 2020. The petition mandates the EPA rule in 60 days and that PSNH must make corrections within three years.

Richards said a core group of about 25 residents, called Citizens for Clean Air, is working to get the word out for Election Day. Richards said she talked with generations of South Eliot residents who chronicled their health problems and talked of finding soot on their cars and houses.

"I want people to see the connections, because they're there," she said.

While said she she feels confident about the vote June 11, either way, she is in this for the long haul.

"I'm not going anywhere," she said.
